Lt Efird suggested splitting the two days up where a team will go one day one week then the second day will be completed on another week. This way you will have a day off between work and not have to work five days in a row.

Thoughts?

Really don't want to work 5 days straight and we cannot afford to be two to three short, let me talk to the team tonight.

Wanted to get your opinions on the in house SMT schedule. Would you guys want for your teams to go as a group, this means your team will have to work five days straight with OT pay, or we can do two or three officers from your team at a time which means you will have to operate the road with two or three short?

Please let me know ASAP what your choice is.

Thanks
