Don't know if you have seen this. Quite obviously it's going to be a political issue for the next year and you'll be in the fray even if you decide not to run. I know that decision includes personal reasons that have nothing to do with the City of Asheville. Committing to four years of service is a big deal for all the candidates. Just know, that I want you to be on Council. You are simply the best I have seen and the City needs you. You are too good to just fill out a vacancy. You may have "inherited" incumbency, but I think that happened for a reason and I want you to expand on that opportunity. That is all there is to my advocacy for you to run.

Since you have invited me to be your "policy advisor" if you run, I'm thrilled at the opportunity to help you. Maybe "policy advisor" is too specific and I'm sure there are others that will be on your team and have better skills in that department and might also like the title. I'd like to talk to you about your platform, figure out ways to get the word out, dig into some voter data, and throw in some tunes on the playlist for the grand announcement. I'm also good at knowing what I'm not good at and I'm not on a mission to be the smartest person in the room. I want to help you help Asheville.

If you want to kick around your decision more, or how to roll out an announcement or when to file, let me know. I'm always available.

Oh, this is on my playlist...
