ll,

Well Done!

I was extremely proud when the [REDACTED] team continually commented on how "together and unified" our community team presented itself and that our community "clearly gets it". Like every large project, we planned every bit of their experience and scripted it for maximum exposure to the right elements; but the "on the spot reaction" talent from our side continues to take things to the next level.

The company indicated they could make a decision fairly quickly after their owner visits. They further indicated that they will be sensitive to our internal deadlines.

I felt like we "won the day" and we will get another visit; which is all I can ask.

Forward and Upward,

EN
