Here at Auburn, the faculty, staff or student must come to our office to get a temporary permit for the day. We do not charge for the first one, but every one after that is $5/day. If they do not come by to get the temporary permit, we will excuse the first ticket each academic year, after that they either pay or appeal the ticket. We implemented a new fine structure this year where the first ticket is $10, second $20, third $40 and all other tickets $50. This is based on the number of tickets during the academic year. Since the first ticket is $10, many of the violators do not appeal the ticket except for those who do not want the ticket on their record. Of course as we all know the ticket is never removed from their record, just the fee changed to $0.

We are implementing License Plate Recognition and next year will be doing away with the "hangtag" permit. This will eliminate the "I forgot my permit" as they will not have one. We do anticipate a new excuse of "I forgot to register my vehicle" which we will have to determine how to handle. In addition, we are working out the procedures for a person with more than one vehicle, carpooling and the times that you are using a loaner/rental because the registered vehicle is being repaired.

Subject: "I forgot my permit"

Hello all,

We seem to be having a rash of "I forgot my permit, it's in my other car".

Our policy is to refund twice, but after there are no refunds. The staff who do this frequently feel this is an unreasonable policy and they should be able to be carefree about having the permit in the vehicle.

Are we being unreasonable? What else are people doing?
