Good morning Sarah,

Hope youÂ had a good weekend! I receivedÂ your voicemail Friday afternoon in reference to getting a quote or comment from Chief Zack. He was in a few meetings on Friday, however, he did get the message and text you on Saturday thatÂ his comment was the quote from the below news release that was sent out Friday. I saw the article came out this morning and wanted to inquire if there is a reason why this was not put into the article? We feel that it should be and would like it to be added to the article since we did respond/comment before the article was published. Can this be added? Or updated into the article, please?Â

Please see below for the comment that was mentioned in the news release that you receivedÂ on Friday.Â

â€œA clean-up effort in mid-April in Asheville had a reported record 200 volunteers pick up 700 pounds of trash during the two-hour community-wide cleanup,â€ said Chief David Zack, Asheville Police Department.Â â€œContrast that with the littering case our detectives investigated, which involved activists who committed felonies by dumping more than 2,000 pounds of litter and refuse in one of our local parks last December.Â That cleanup cost taxpayers in the City of Asheville nearly $2,700 with more than 100 man-hours, and required two dump trucks, half a dozen pickup trucks, and other heavy machinery.â€

Respectfully,
Samantha
