Areas of expertise: concepts related to systemic multicultural counseling to include equity, individual and community mental health, group dynamics; community engagement; facilitation; community partnership building

Education: Master's in Marriage and Family Therapy with certificate in systemic multicultural counseling from Appalachian State University
Bachelor's in Psychology and minor in Linguistics from University of North Carolina - Chapel Hill

Experience: I currently work as director of a community engaged-leadership development and college access program, the Bonner Leaders. My work in leadership development spans from advising and teaching college students in a Leadership Studies minor to leading various engagement opportunities to mentoring and facilitating training as a US Army Reserve soldier. These experiences in leadership development and community engagement mixed with my education in therapy make me a top candidate to work intimately in and with communities.

Reasons for interest: I am interested in building deeper relationship with the city and the community. I want to be a part of the conversations regarding decision-making and advocate for policies that enhance the lives of the people around me. Throughout my education, I learned that I didn't just want to sit across from an ailing person/family/couple/etc. and hear their troubles. I wanted to advocate for
